Meraki Managed Service:

Alleviate the pressures of managing your network

The day-to-day management of networks is becoming more challenging with the sprawling nature of today's business network managed by leaner teams with larger, business-critical projects to focus on.

Despite often lacking dedicated resources, the network is an integral part of the successful operation of any organisation. From supporting access to the internet and SaaS applications to ensuring remote workers can work effectively, the network is key to ensuring businesses run smoothly.

Understanding this, Natilik offers a Meraki Managed Service, built on the principle of helping teams to alleviate the pressures of managing their network.

How can I benefit from a Meraki Managed Service?

If you're wondering whether a managed service is right for you and your business, take a look at some of the benefits this support service provides.

Reduce infrastructure management

Leave the management to the Natilik team and have time back to focus on building and executing your technology strategy.

Optimise your applications

Know that your applications are secured and optimised properly across private and public cloud environments.

Bolster your limited resources

Natilik can act as an extension of your teams, supporting the daily management of your solutions and providing technical support internally.

Reduce unforeseen costs

Remove the pressure of ad hoc costs associated with ongoing technology management.

Improve visibility

Get enhanced insight and reporting capabilities that give you the additional visibility you need to see the full picture.
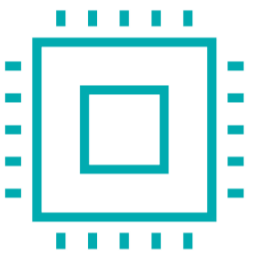

How does it work?

Designed with you in mind, a Meraki Managed Service from Natilik gives you the flexibility needed to experience a service built to support your business requirements and goals, with three key offerings available.

With a simple per-device pricing structure, you will know exactly what and how much you are paying.

Meraki Managed Access

- Optimise and maintain your business-critical applications.
- Let the Natilik experts look after day-to-day networking tasks on your behalf, giving you time back to focus on business-critical projects.

Meraki Managed Firewall

- Reduce administration and minimise complexity with cohesive policies.
- Let the Natilik experts take care of the day-to-day security tasks such as managing malware, intrusion detection and content filtering settings.

Meraki Managed SD-WAN

- Ensure reliable performance for latency-sensitive, business-critical applications.
- Let the Natilik experts take care of the delivery and management of fixed and/or cellular Internet access and management and configuration of existing Meraki SD-WAN configuration and SaaS/IaaS/ DC served applications.
