A Palo Alto Networks Solution

Who is Palo Alto Networks?

Founded in 2005, Palo Alto Networks is a global cybersecurity leader, that focus on continually delivering innovation to enable secure digital transformation. With over 80,000 enterprise customers globally, Palo Alto Networks' mission is to be your cybersecurity partner of choice, protecting your digital way of life and striving to provide the technology your teams need to improve competitiveness and increase security in our rapidly changing world.

What makes Palo Alto Networks different?

Innovation is at the heart of what Palo Alto Networks does. You need speed and agility to compete effectively. Speed requires simplicity and simplicity requires three things: visibility and control, tightly integrated controls and analytics that drive automated action. As you secure the network, Palo Alto Networks continue to redefine the next-generation firewall, adding additional capabilities to the platform. As you secure the cloud, Palo Alto Networks provide secure access for devices in any location, retail sites, branches, mobile, medical devices, and even oil rigs in the North Sea. Additionally, the platform secures access to SaaS applications and provides consistent visibility, compliance and control across public cloud workloads.

The Palo Alto Networks Portfolio

Network security

Hybrid work and direct-to-app architectures have dramatically increased our attack surface. From zero trust network access, intrusion detection and prevention to web and phishing security and cloud secure web gateway, Palo Alto Networks has a range of solutions designed to help protect your network from existing and emerging threats.

Cloud-native application protection

Application modernisation is driving many organisations to the cloud. However, without continuous visibility and proactive threat prevention throughout the development lifecycle, applications are left with significant risk. Cloud-native application protection solutions from Palo Alto Networks help to secure applications from code to cloud.

Security operations

Security operations teams face an increasing number of challenges; siloed teams and tools, alert fatigue, constantly changing infrastructures and securing increasingly distributed teams. Security operations solutions from Palo Alto Networks and Natilik are designed to streamline your operations and encompass cloud security automation, cloud detection and response to network security automation and SOC automation.

Endpoint security

With ransomware bypassing traditional defences and adversaries evolving faster than endpoint protection, you need to look toward AI-powered solutions that are continually learning. Palo Alto Network's host of innovative solutions includes endpoint protection, extended detection and response, ransomware protection and digital forensics to help you stay ahead of the world's most advanced threat actors.
